

SAMUEL ROTHBERG PROFESIONAL EXCELLENCE AWARD

The Samuel Rothberg Award for Professional Excellence is one of Bradley University's highest academic recognitions. To be eligible for this award, candidates should be currently affiliated with Bradley University, should have had a continuous affiliation of not fewer than five years, and should be full-time tenured professors (associate or full) of the university.

To be considered, individuals should have clear evidence of prolonged and ongoing research and/or creative production during their time of affiliation with Bradley University, as demonstrated by (but not limited to) publications, presentations, or exhibitions. This research and/or creative production should have made an original and prominent contribution to the development and practice of their respective fields and should have been exposed to critical appraisal by professional peers.
